Financial Due Diligence

Executive Summary:

Nestle is growing strongly, and its AR and overall inventory efficiency look healthy. However, EBITDA is not growing as fast as revenue, finished-goods inventory has increased significantly, and operating cash flow has fallen sharply. Therefore, the key FDD question is not Is Nestle growing? but “How sustainable is the growth and why isn't the growth converting into cash as strongly?

Conclusion:

Gross trade receivables declined from ₹3,716.6 million in FY2025 to ₹3,412.7 million in FY2026. The ageing profile is broadly positive, with 92.5% of FY2026 gross receivables not yet due and receivables outstanding for less than six months declining materially. However, receivables outstanding for more than three years increased from ₹1.2 million to ₹23.3 million. Although this represents only 0.7% of gross AR, the movement warrants investigation alongside the credit-impaired receivables and ECL provisions.

DCF Assumptions: Revenue growth was anchored to Nestlé’s historical performance, with FY26A growth of 14% and the historical average supporting a normalized base assumption of 10%. The forecast gradually moderates toward 6% by Year 5, supported by the Excel trend forecast and the expectation that growth normalizes as the business matures. The assumptions also consider management’s focus on volume growth, pricing, premiumisation, distribution and future investments. A 12.11% WACC and 4% terminal growth were used to reflect a mature, established FMCG business while keeping the valuation assumption conservative and defensible.
